NEW WESTERN LINE OF THE

The above map shows what is believed to be the present position of the British forces in France and Belgium, the heavy black line indicating the British front. The British recently took over a section of line to enable the French to increase their reserves.

Big Battle Upon British Front Predicted To Take Place Shortly

London, April 4.—The Times' military correspondent, in an account of a visit to Verdun and the French front, predicts the development shortly of a big battle on the British front.

"The Germans," says the correspondent, "have their army distributed in two great masses—one in front of the British army and the other around Verdun. The first group numbers 34 divisions and the latter 30 divisions. The rest of the line in France is thinly held."

"From this distribution one must suppose either that the Germans intend to attack the British or expect the British to attack them."

Induction of Rev. G. N. Finn

The beautiful new induction service of the Episcopal church was held in the revised prayer book was used to induct the Rev. G. N. Finn, M.A., as the new rector of St. Luke's church on Sunday last. The services were taken in a most impressive manner by Rev. Canon Hayes, principal of Bishop Pinkham school for boys at Calgary, acting for the Bishop of the diocese. There were good congregations both morning and evening and the canon's discourses were listened to with a good deal of attention.

On Monday evening the congregation and friends gathered in the Parish Hall to meet the new rector and to get acquainted with him. There was a goodly attendance of the members of the congregation, and a fine musical programme was carried out. Mrs. Maxwell gave an instrumental. Miss G. Walker, Rev. Mr. Patstone, of Lacombe, and Mr. Moody rendered solos, and Mrs. Dr. Sanders gave several choice selections on the violin, all being well received. Mrs. Leary and Mrs. Myson presided at the piano. Among those present were Rev. Mr. Ryan of the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Patstone and Rev. Mr. Brough, of the Baptist church, who gave brief addresses of welcome to Mr. Finn. Rev. Mr. Brown, who was obliged to be out of the city, expressed his regrets at being unable to attend. Mr. Finn made a suitable reply. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the W.A. in the basement, which concluded one of the most pleasant evenings ever spent by the congregation.

Keep in mind the seven-day-in-one bazaar on April 24 in Parish Hall.

Two Million Is Voted In Less Than Three Hours

GOES FOR AGRICULTURE, HOSPITALS, TELEPHONES PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS AND THE LIKE

Edmonton, April 1.—After spending a full week on the government estimates, the Alberta legislature threw the clutch over to the full-steam-ahead notch, Friday night, and in less than three hours voted, about $2,000,000 for agriculture, dairy work, hospitals and charities, telephones, public institutions and municipal affairs.

Considerable discussion characterized the passing of each item but very little of a definite nature was brought out although Dr. Stanley, High River, extracted from Hon. Wilfred Garfield a promise that an effort would be made to amend the local improvement act so that grants may be made to adjacent hospitals. This $2,000,000 was realized on the sale of operating expenses of creamery work some $250,000 has been provided. Other large expenditures include grants for immigration and colonization, encouraging the poultry industry, the Alberta Natural History Society, scholarships for students at agricultural colleges and to women's institutes. Provision has also been made for advances of $200,000 under the elevator act and for a grant of $10,000 to the United Farmers' association.

During the discussion on public institutions it was pointed out that $10,000 was realized on the sale of produce from Lethbridge prison farm last year, exclusive of what was consumed in the institution.

London, April 1.—Twenty-eight persons were killed and 41 injured in last night's air raid, according to official figures given out today.

London, April 1.—One of the five Zeppelins which visited the eastern counties of England during the night dropping 90 bombs, was damaged, presumably by British anti-aircraft guns, and came down off the Thames estuary. It surrendered to British patrol boats. The crew was saved, but the airship broke up and sank while being towed in.

Military Notes

Walter Strong, liverman, and Homer Crowder, farmer, of Rocky Mountain House and J. W. Hesgan, Z. Nobles, C. H. Sims and W. F. Myers, farmer, of Leslieville, are among the recruits gathered by Corp. M. D. Case, from the west country, for the 21st American Legion.

The passing of one more member of the first company of sixty men who enlisted here for active service a few weeks after the outbreak of war and were later merged with the Fifth Battalion, recorded in the casualty lists of Wednesday last: Pte. Walter R. Beaton being reported as dead of wounds. Pte. Beaton, who originally came from Provost, Alta., was brought here by two detectives from Scotland Yard, who handed him over to federal agents.

According to their Scotland Yard men, Von der Goltz was a prisoner for some time in the tower of London, awaiting execution, but was promised that his life would be spared if he would come to this country and tell this government what he knew concerning the alleged conspiracies to commit unprovoked attacks after giving his testimony, his custodians said, he is to be returned to England and from there is to be sent to South America under his promise that he will not attempt again to enter either England, Germany, or the United States.

Word was received from Pte. Theo. Wright, on Monday, and his many friends will be glad to hear that he is still progressing favorably and hopes to be able to leave the hospital in about two or three weeks.

Pte. John Piper, of the 63rd Battalion, was home for the first time since Monday, a few hours after receipt of the news that he was wounded.

One of the strong men of the 59th gave an exhibition of his strength on Gaetz Avenue on Monday afternoon, when he took hold of the spokes of the wheel of Mr. Samuels' buggy and lifted buggy, Samuels and all of the ground. Now, Mr. Samuels weighs in the neighborhood of three hundred pounds, thirty-seven and three-quarter pounds.

Over 100 Perish When Foo Sinks Slav Hospital Ship

Sisters of Charity and Doctors Among Victims

Petrograd, April 1.—The sinking of the Russian hospital ship Portugal in the Black sea, is recorded in a dispatch received from M. Golubeff, delegate-general, of the Red Cross, with the Caucasian army.

"At 8.30 o'clock last night," said the dispatch, "the Portugal, at anchor, was sunk by an enemy submarine. The ship sank in less than a minute. Lifeboats from trawlers and torpedo boats rescued 11 of the crew. The ship carried 100 men, 50 of them of the Russian medical service and 20 of the French crew. According to the commander, the Portugal had 273 persons aboard, of whom 158 were saved. We are exploring the nearby coast in search of further survivors. There are a few wounded among the survivors."

"The Portugal carried the usual Red Cross signs prominently displayed."

13th O.M.R. Seek Recruits

The 13th Overseas Mounted Rifle Battalion, C.E.F., are now open for recruiting, and Lieut. Murray will be at the training for this purpose tomorrow. They are in need of 400 men, and just as soon as this number is obtained they will at once proceed overseas. This regiment, all will remember are renowned for their fine physique, good appearance, and smartness on parade. They have been organized since February, 1915, and are consequently in the pink of condition, and those now joining will be enabled to master the rudiments of military life much quicker than if they were joining a newly organized regiment. This regiment consists, as the public well know, of picked men, and are trained as mounted men, so that when mounted troops are required the 13th O.M.R. will be able to supply the necessary trained men. Cavalry, machine gunners and musicians are needed.

It is expected, too, that the 13th hand will pay this city a visit in the near future for the purpose of helping along recruiting.

Moratorium for Soldiers

Edmonton, March 26.—The act for "Relief of Volunteers and Reservists," generally known as the moratorium bill, was introduced this afternoon. It applies to both men and women on active service, and extends from August 1st, 1914, to a period of one year after the termination of the war. No proceedings of any kind for debt or other liability (including rates and taxes), can be taken during this period, either against a soldier or his wife. If a soldier is discharged, the exemption period extends to one year after that event.

Remember April 22nd, St. Julien Day!

Saves His Life By Telling of German Plots

BRITISH SENTENCE OF DEATH IS REDUCED—HERR VON DER GOLTZ ARRIVES IN NEW YORK.

New York, March 29.—Herr Von der Goltz, alias Bridgeman Taylor, who is said to have been sentenced to death in England as a spy, arrived here today on the steamship Finland from Liverpool to give evidence concerning alleged conspiracies to provide German warships at sea with coal and provisions. He was brought here by two detectives from Scotland Yard, who handed him over to federal agents.

According to their Scotland Yard men, Von der Goltz was a prisoner for some time in the tower of London, awaiting execution, but was promised that his life would be spared if he would come to this country and tell this government what he knew concerning the alleged conspiracies to commit unprovoked attacks after giving his testimony, his custodians said, he is to be returned to England and from there is to be sent to South America under his promise that he will not attempt again to enter either England, Germany, or the United States.

Letters from the Front

Chas. Cruickshank received the following letter from "Rube" Gee on Monday, a few hours after receipt of the news that he was wounded.

Dear Dad,—Just a few lines to let you know how I am getting on. We are now back to the old billets, after being in the trenches for some time. It is necessary for a soldier to have a very strong constitution. We have had a lot of cold weather, and considerable snow. The roads, and fields are very muddy to march on, but we expect some fine weather very soon to dry things up a bit. I have contracted a bit of cold, and find it rather a hard problem to get rid of. Our billets are not as comfortable as we should like them to be, too many holes in the roof and walls, more so than a great many of our log barns out there, that requires thinking. However, we have to make out the best way we can. We are here to do our bit, and the sooner the big bit comes off the better. For my part I should like to finish my career in about one or two months and get away home, that's if I get that chance. The last dug-out I was in is up for rent. Splendid scenery, being in the trenches for some time, three inches below water level, plenty of water and gas, food supply not too bad, eggs rather scarce owing to the great demand for shells. I have met with a great number of the Red Deer boys, some of them are killed, a few minutes walk from the trench and you are in the German lines, three inches below water level, plenty of water and gas, food supply not too bad, eggs rather scarce owing to the great demand for shells. ## Slavs Now Fight on Front of 35 Miles

THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE HAS DEVELOPED INTO GENERAL ENGAGEMENT, MUCH TO THE SURPRISE OF HUNS

Petrograd, March 30.—The Russian offensive maneuvers along the Drinsk-Riga front, although apparently local in character and unimportant, as compared with more sweeping and spectacular movements which have marked warfare on the eastern front, have already rendered the carefully constructed positions of the German and Russian armies along the line, and will, it is thought, here, determine the course of the coming spring campaign. The fighting has now developed from isolated encounters along a ten mile front to a general engagement, extending more than thirty-five miles along the line. German troops which were being rushed to this front, instead of taking part in an advance believed to have been intended by the Germans, are occupied in defending their positions of last fall, and it appears to observers here that Field Marshal von Hindenburg's spring campaign will be defensive rather than the offensive one which was expected.

Mrs. Muldrew Holds Luncheon at Ladies College

MRS. MCCLUNG GUEST OF HONOR

An exceedingly pleasant luncheon party in honor of Mrs. Nellie McClung of Edmonton and Mrs. W. G. Greene, of this city, was given by Mrs. Muldrew, principal of the Ladies College, on Tuesday afternoon. About fifty ladies were present, and the scene was a charming one with the beautiful dresses of the guests and the tables prettily decorated with daisies and spring flowers. After a splendid menu, prepared and served by the Household Science class and other pupils, this event marking the end of the winter term, Mrs. Muldrew presented the King's health and the National Anthem was sung.

Mrs. W. G. Greene then proposed a toast to Mrs. McClung in an eloquent speech in which she paid the highest tributes to her as a personal friend and as an energetic worker in philanthropic, religious, and patriotic work of the city. Mrs. Greene gave a happy response in which she thanked Mrs. McClung and all for the very kind words of appreciation also giving some reminiscences of the seventeen years spent in Red Deer. Before leaving Ottawa she had asked Mrs. Clifford Sifton if she knew anything of Red Deer, and was told that had the reputation even at that date, of having a particularly good class of residences and shops, a reputation the town has kept up to the present.

Mrs. W. E. Lord then, in a few well-chosen remarks, proposed a toast to Mrs. McClung, expressing her pleasure at having such a clever well-known writer present.

Mrs. McClung dealt especially with the responsibilities of women under the equal franchise which now obtains in Alberta. Mrs. McClung strongly urged the women to stick together, not in any narrow selfish sense, but that the viewpoint of women might have its proper force in the framing of legislation. Mrs. McClung emphasized some of the disabilities under which the laws placed women, despite the advances in legislation protecting women which now prevailed in Alberta, and emphasized her right to an equal standing with men in the law. The speaker's criticism of capital punishment was touch of upon, and the duty laid upon women, in addition to the work they were doing in the way to make Alberta a cleaner, safer, and better country for their men to some home to after their service at the front.

Mrs. McClung's address was a deep impression, and those who were privileged to hear it will not soon forget its earnest appeal for a better Alberta.

The ladies of the city are greatly indebted to Mrs. Muldrew for the delightful surprise of the inspiring address from Mrs. Nellie McClung who had taken the trouble to come down from Edmonton out of compliment to Mrs. Muldrew for this special occasion.

You Can cure that old sore or ulcer from which you have been suffering for so long if you will only use an ointment that is capable of reaching the seat of the trouble. Zam-Buk can do this because of its unusual penetrating power. Also, Zam-Buk is a strong germicide—germs cannot live where Zam-Buk is applied, so that the germs are destroyed not only on the surface, but in all the tissues underneath. Finally, it relieves the pain, and thus the healing commences; new tissue replacing the old and diseased, until the sore is thoroughly and permanently cured.

The case of Miss Frances Daulton, of Somerset, Mass., verifies the above statement. She writes: "I suffered for over twenty years with an ulcer on my leg, and all the remedies I tried during that time proved ineffective. Several doctors treated me, but I got no benefit. Finally I tried Zam-Buk, and I am thankful to say that after perseverance with this ointment I am now completely cured."

Zam-Buk is also completely cured of eczema, about all kinds of pimples, ringworm, piles, blood-poisoning, cuts, burns, and all skin injuries and diseases. Send for a box of 100 aches. All druggists, 50c. box, $ for $1.25, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Boy Shot at Blackfalds

Twenty-two Rifle Very Dangerous

A most distressing fatal accident took place across the Blindman some thirteen miles northwest of Red Deer on Sunday afternoon, wherein Norman Paice, a youth of 17 years, accidentally shot himself, dying a couple of minutes later after a 75 yard run for help.

It appears that young Paice had come out to shoot gophers to feed a couple of kittens at the house. A friend of his, John Dunlop the young, or, living on the next farm, was watching a young duck on the river when the duck scuttled away. Turning to see what had disturbed the duck, he saw his chum coming down the hillside. Paice was out of cartridges, having used his only one on the one gopher he had shot. Dunlop went into their house to get shells for Paice, but did not take out his own .22, as his father objected to his shooting on Sunday. Paice got four gophers, and the two by that time were not far from Dunlop's home. An outwitted cat disappeared under the barn and while Dunlop watched where she went in, Paice skirted the barn to get the cat at the opposite side. Hearing a shot, Dunlop ran round to meet his chum, and was surprised to see the .22 on the ground and Paice making for the house. Dunlop called to find out what was the matter, and Paice answered: "I've done for myself." He had crossed the barnyard, opened a gate, and was making his way up the hillside to the home. He had gone about 75 yards from the barn, when he collapsed, Dunlop, after a brief stop, continued on to the home and told the sad news to the distracted family. Paice's only brother being there. When they reached the prostrate form, however, the stricken lad gave a gasp and was gone.

Word was sent to the Coroner, Capt. Dr. George, who went out Sunday evening. Though the head was covered with blood stains he could not locate the bullet wound for some time. Finally, after a closer examination, the entry of the bullet was found in the right arm pit, whence it had torn through arteries, etc., and lodged in the chest. They found that the unfortunate lad had thrown the used shell out of the rifle after he knew that he had been struck. The lad was tall and had a short .22, and it is supposed he had his finger on the trigger guard as he ran round the barn, and by some slip or other, the rifle swung round and up and was discharged.

Coroner Dr. George decided that there was no necessity of holding an inquest, as all parties concerned were quite satisfied with young Dunlop's account of the circumstances leading up to the sad occurrence.

The Paice family came out from Oxford, England, some two years ago, while Mr. Dunlop and Mr. Darroch farm the old Milton Williams place. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paice have one son left, and there will be general sympathy for their sore loss.

One Year in Jail

Jas. D. King, of Blackfalds, who some time ago was committed for trial before Inspector Lindsay of the R.N.M.F. here for cattle stealing and has since been awaiting trial at Calgary barracks, became tired of the wait for the fall assizes in September and gave a sentence of one year and asked for a speedy trial. He was brought up before Judge Greene at the Court House here on Saturday, and given a sentence of one year in the Lethbridge jail. This was the first criminal case to come up in the new building, and the first sentence for a criminal offense passed by His Lordship Judge Greene. It was also the first appearance as Crown Prosecutor of Mr. John Quinn, who has been appointed agent of the Attorney-General at Red Deer, in succession to Mr. A. H. Russell, resigning.

290,000 MEN HAVE ENLISTED

Total War Expenditure at the End of Last Month Totals $187,000,000.

Ottawa, March 30.--Sir Robert Borden stated in the house to-day, in reply to a question by Mr. Macell regarding the decision to raise 500,000 troops, that the government always took pains to get the views of the war office in regard to what Canada should do in the matter of raising troops or giving other assistance. He said that nothing had happened to cause the government to change its mind as to authorizing the enlistment of 500,000 men. The time necessary to raise this number would depend on conditions, including the demands of agricultural and other industries. He said that it took six months to get infantry units ready for action, and longer for other units.

To date, the prime minister added, 290,000 men had been enlisted, of whom 112,000 were in Britain or at the front, 135,000 in Canada, 22,000 casualties and 21,700 wageless. The total expenditure to the end of February last for war purposes was $187,000,000.

The prime minister read a cable which he had received from the minister of militia, stating that the report that Brigadier-General Curry was behind the lines at the time of the battle of St. Julien was not correct. He was behind the British lines, and was there for a perfectly good reason.

Flags Up on St. Julien Day

Ottawa, March 30.--The government is issuing an order that the flag must be flown at the masthead on all government buildings in Canada on the anniversary of the battle of St. Julien, April 22. The wish is expressed that the anniversary of the day when the Canadian first division won undying honor for themselves and for Canada should be generally observed.

AGRICULTURAL CREDITS

The question of Agricultural Credits introduced into the Legislature by Mr. Michener, is fraught with great possibilities in Alberta. Mr. Michener has been a consistent and persistent advocate of cheaper money for the development of the land for years. The dairy and stock industry would be greatly increased could farmers secure money at say, five per cent. for a long period with the payment of interest and principal yearly, and with a small expense of securing the money. If the government wanted to do something really beneficial to the people, here is a chance, to accept the challenge of the leader of the opposition, and appoint a committee from the Legislature to look into the question and try to bring in a recommendation as to the best system to adopt, and the best way to administer it.

Some people contend conditions in Alberta are worse than in Saskatchewan if we could only get at the bottom of things. There is only one way to do that, and that is to have a commission.

Pastor Russell started to address meetings throughout Canada on an anti-enlistment campaign. He heard of him once or twice in a casual way down east, but we feel quite certain since that time he is hiding under the barn.

A SOLITARY SURVIVOR

(Hamilton Herald)

Dr. Michael Clark, who alone holds the free trade fort at Ottawa, who reads about the backsliding of the British free traders, must feel like Elijah when he uttered the lament, "And I, even I only, am left."

THE OLD FLAG

To see a great crowd of school children singing "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall" is an inspiring and yet a pathetic sight. They mean it, of course, but naturally they haven't much idea of all that is involved in their promise. Somehow, we have never much feared that our brave boys on the fields of Flanders would let the flag fall. And no report we have had from them has given us any reason to doubt. We have really feared more for the people who have stayed at home. History tells us that the story of a nation whose armies were doing brave and valiant things abroad while its people at home were dragging its honor in the mire of indulgence and sensuality. The flag stands for the integrity, the strength, the honor of the nation. It is the symbol of all that is best and most worth upholding and preserving here at home as much as they do over there in Europe. To let the flag fall here will in the end be as fatal as to let it fall there.—Christian Guardian.

Agricultural Credits

Mr. Michener introduced the following motion in the Legislative Assembly:

Whereas the growth and prosperity of the Province of Alberta are largely dependent upon the dependent upon the development of our agricultural resources;

And whereas such development is unduly retarded and restricted unless those engaged in agricultural pursuits are enabled to readily obtain the capital necessarily required for their operations upon reasonably satisfactory terms, both as to interest and to the time in which principal monies are to be repaid;

And whereas the growth of our urban centres as well as the industrial and commercial development of our province are largely dependent upon the volume of farm production;

Therefore Be It Resolved: That in the opinion of this House it is desirable:

That the Government of Alberta as soon as the necessary financial and other arrangements can be made, should bring into effect and operation a system of agricultural credits best adapted to the present needs and conditions existing throughout Alberta.

The subject matter of this resolution, agricultural credits, said Mr. Michener, is of supreme importance to the present and future interests of Alberta.

There is no place where it is of more importance than in this new country. This is obvious for different reasons. The majority of people who first settle in a new country, more especially homesteaders, are not possessed of much wealth.

In the second place a new country is a fertile field for financial interests to reap large profits on the capital by reason of high rates of interest. In the third place there is a large percentage of settlers who, because of the distance from railways cannot secure capital at any price. This class would be especially benefited by the adoption of some system of agricultural credits. Many of these settlers when they secure their homestead patents are without means to stock their farms or to improve them sufficiently to make them productive to the extent of supporting a family. The results in many cases being that the farmer leaves the homestead to earn money elsewhere, oftentimes leaving the country and selling his homestead at a nominal price. If at this juncture when a man receives his title a few hundred dollars could be got at a reasonable rate of interest, it would help the settler stay at home, to establish his farm, and to put him on the road to success and contentment. This is the class of a settler that a system of agricultural credits should particularly consider at the introduction of agricultural credits.

It may be a surprise to some of the members to know that agricultural credits have been adopted in most of the countries in Europe in some form or other, and the general consensus of opinion is that they have greatly strengthened production and not only greatly benefited the agricultural interests of the respective countries generally, but have also had a beneficial influence upon interests other than agriculture by increasing the trade and wealth of the people generally. New Zealand and Australia are better examples of the conditions of Western Canada. The system of advances to settlers has been in vogue in these countries for some years and according to reports has had a very marked effect not only in the increased production of these countries but has had a decided effect upon the general prosperity of the people. The American consul at New Zealand in referring to the question of advances to the settlers of New Zealand, states the first effect was to drop the rate of interest on farm securities from 8 p.c. to 4 p.c. This in itself meant a large amount of money retained in the country for reproduction which was before paid out in interest largely to foreign countries.

Mr. Lucas, a member of the B.C. Legislature, visited New Zealand and Australia for the purpose of investigating agricultural credits in these countries. He states that he found it to be almost the unanimous opinion of those he met that the advances to the "Settlers Act" authorizing and guaranteeing loans to the farmers on the security of their lands for the purpose of improving and developing the country, was the most beneficial legislation ever passed by the New Zealand government, that it has not only given a great impetus to the agricultural industry but it has reacted in related and other industries in a further stimulation of trade in general. He says throughout the country a higher and better civilization is gradually being evolved. The young men and women who are growing up are happy and contented to remain at home on the farm, and find ample time and opportunity for recreation and entertainment of a kind more wholesome and elevating than can be obtained in the cities. For fifteen years previous to the introduction of loans to settlers the exports of New Zealand increased 35.30 p.c., while the imports decreased 16.15 p.c. This should give us a glimpse of what a sound system of agricultural credits adapted to the present conditions would mean to the increased population of Alberta. I stated on the floor of this house on a previous occasion that if the government had introduced a credit system in this province in 1905 when we received our Dominion status, today we would at least have 50 p.c. more population and 100 p.c. more production. This statement is more than verified by the effect it had in New Zealand and Australia where it has been proved under conditions similar to what we have in Alberta.

In 1913 an American commission was sent to Europe with a view to study the different agricultural credit systems in vogue there. This commission was composed of representatives of many states of the union and four of the provinces of Canada. The exhaustive report of the commission sets forth the advantages of the different systems in force in the different countries there. If we bear in mind the fact that in European countries money can be secured at a much lower rate than here it is still a stronger argument for a system of agricultural credits for Alberta. The commission from the American branch represented on the American commission make the following comment in their report. "An introduction into the fact that cheap money so called forms only one phase of the great problem of re-ordering rural life which European countries have successfully accomplished through the medium of agricultural co-operation." It is pointed out that there, as with us, agriculture was the last industry to become organized and the rural re-birth of Europe carrying with it better and cheaper agricultural credit dates from the organization of the farmer along co-operative lines. Through organization there agriculture has been profoundly affected on three sides, as an industry, as a business, and as a life.

There is great need of cheaper credit based on a sound basis spreading over a considerable number of years to assist mixed farming so that money can be paid back on the amortization plan.

At present both the credits given by the banks and loan companies are of too short a duration. In addition to this the rate of interest is so high on mortgages, ranging from eight to ten per cent at the present time, and the cost of securing a loan so large, that the principal is considerably impaired to start with. One loan company doing business in this province takes a 10 p.c. bonus out of the loan in addition to the expenses in connection with the plugging of it. The result is in many cases the interest is such a charge on the revenue of the farmer, though his loan runs five years, he finds it all he can do to make up the interest and when the loan expires it is a case of renewal and works out a system of perpetual indebtedness to the lender as the principal as well as interest at the end of the term rather than a reduction. On the amortization plan the principal and interest is equated over a period of years, say from 10 to 20 years, according to the ability of the borrower to repay. The repayment on this plan at a lower rate of interest would be met by the farmer and being very little more than the interest now being paid by the farmer, at the end of the term his money would be discharged. I am quite aware at the present time money cannot be secured at as low a rate of interest as in some years ago, but even now money could be borrowed, secured by first mortgages on farm lands at a comparatively low rate of interest, and the provincial banks in connection with co-operative farm loans large amounts could be available from deposits made by the people.

The opinion of some of the leading financiers seems to be that money will be plentiful in America after the war is over and interest rates will be low. Some of the leading financiers of the United States at least one of the Canadian banks has sent instructions to their managers throughout the west to in no case charge over 8 p.c., which would indicate that the tendency of the rate of interest is downwards rather than upwards. However, the introduction of the principle of agricultural credits does not necessarily mean the immediate borrowing of money or an immediate charge upon the credit of the government, even though a system is adopted which involves the credit of the province. The adoption of the principle by the province would in itself have a tendency to reduce the rate of interest for commercial as well as agricultural purposes throughout the country. Inasmuch as the commercial interest and growth of urban centres depends to a great extent on the growth of farm production anything that will encourage and stimulate farm production will reflect advantageously on all other interests throughout the province. In some of the European countries money is secured through agricultural credits as low as 2 p.c. We need not draw much on our imagination to realize what an impetus and stimulation it would be to this province if credit for such purposes could be secured even at 5 p.c. The difference between 5 p.c. and the rate now charged on farm mortgages would in itself be sufficient in time to pay the principal of the loan.

One aspect of the problem has before it at the present time a bill to solve the question of agricultural credits for the United States. During the past two or three years the United States has largely solved the question of credits for commercial interests. There, big banks have been stripped of their power to amass money scarce and dear, and the small banks are no longer compelled to hold large cash reserves in anticipation of the withdrawal of deposits. The banks will act as clearing houses for the farm loan associations. In addition to the New Zealand system of straight loans to farmers we have the different systems in vogue in Europe as set forth by the report of the American commission.

It is not to be divided under three heads: first, strictly co-operative; secondly, strictly governmental; thirdly, a combination of government and co-operative systems.

It is not my intention at the present time to express any opinion as to the best system, or the best features of the different systems to adopt in Alberta. The introduction of the principle of agricultural credits in Alberta ought not only to take into consideration the system best adapted to the needs of the agricultural interests, but also must consider the financial condition both as to the world condition both as to provincial and national conditions. A strictly co-operative system would not be any charge upon the credit of the province, while a strictly governmental system would be a charge upon the credit of the province which would be secured by first mortgages upon conservative advances. While a combination system of government and co-operative units would be an initial charge upon the credit of the province but as the country prospered and deposits were made through provincial government banks, this system in time might provide within the province sufficient reserves to supply the demand for loans throughout the province.

The question is fraught with such tremendous and far reaching possibilities and is so intimately associated with the progress and development of all the interests of the province, more especially the agricultural interests, that it should not be made a party question either in its introduction or its operation. Personally, I am quite willing to co-operate with the government side of the house in evolving a system of credit best suited to the needs and conditions of Alberta and would like to see a committee of the House appointed to make a thorough study of the different systems as set forth in the reports from the various countries, and to recommend the principle of agricultural credits, such a committee to report to the government their conclusions, and the government should suit it will in accordance with the recommendations of the committee at the next session of the House.

The Cherniavsky Trio

There is exceptional interest being manifested in the coming stage of Leo, Jan and Michel Cherniavsky, the great Russian violinist, pianist and cellist. These geniuses have caused a sensation in all parts of the world. The Bombay "Gazette," December 11th, 1913, says: "If music be the food of love Play on; give me excess of it." The Cherniavsky trio have been applied to the mind at the Royal Opera House last night, when the Cherniavsky trio gave an excellent performance. It is surely a tribute to both players and audience that such a programme as the trio was responsible for, could provide an evening, about the appreciation of which there was not a doubt. I was in this appreciation, sincere, spontaneous and yet discriminating that makes the finest about quoted, so applicable, for the work of the artists was not only most enthusiastically received, but they were again and again recalled. These great Russian geniuses are now at the Lyric Theatre, when it is anticipated the house will be packed.

GROWING CROPS ON STUBBLE LAND IN 1916

The Empire's Demands for food are greater this year than last. Less summer-fallow and less fall ploughing than usual in 1915 make it necessary that the farmers of the Prairie provinces in 1916 shall sow extensively on stubble land

MR. J. H. GRISDALE, Director, and the Superintendents of the Dominion Experimental Farms, urge the following upon the Farmers:

STUBBLE LAND OF FIRST CROP AFTER FALLOW

Burn stubble thoroughly as soon as surface is dry. Fire about noon time when steady wind is blowing. Cultivate at once about two inches deep with the moldboard. If possible, where area is large, harrow first, then cultivate, seed, and harrow again. In Eastern Saskatchewan sow 1½ bush. per acre; in Western Saskatchewan 1¼ bush. On light soils and dry lands sow ¾ bush. less.

STUBBLE LAND OF SECOND CROP AFTER FALLOW

Usually this land should be summer-fallowed, but this year much of it must be in crop. Burn stubble if possible. This may be helped by scattering straw freely over the field. When old stubble about the end of a 4-foot stick. Dip in gasoline. Set on fire and shake on straw and stubble. Carry gasoline in open pail. If stubble is too light to burn then cultivate, harrow and seed a little lighter than above. Oats and barley will do better than wheat. If shoe drills are used plough instead of cultivating. Plough, pack or roll, and then harrow, if land is heavy or weedy. In the drier sections at least one-third of all cropping land should be summer-fallowed every year.

STUBBLE LAND OF THIRD CROP AFTER FALLOW

Do not sow to grain, but summer-fallow. Better use your spring labour on other stubble land and thus make more crops in 1916 and 1917. Put your labour on land that is likely to give best return.

SEED

Use only clean, plump seed of tested variety. Use the fanning mill thoroughly and treat seed for smut. Have hoes, harrows and machines in good shape before starting work.

THE CULT OF KHAKI

The following article on the jama-mont popularity of khaki appeared in the London Times.

The red coat and the black, faded in other days irretrievable to the imagination, have surrendered at discretion to the dun-colored suit of the modern campaigner. Khaki's only wear, and lucky it is who has youth and sufficient standing in the service to put it on; for thereby he has womankind at his feet. In itself, particularly in the officer's dress, the modern uniform may be, but this quiet habit has a spell of its own, for it approximates to the perfection of the excellence of faultless civilian dress without abating one jot of martial quality. It is, indeed, most martial, and the god of war himself would look well in it. In the mass it suggests efficiency and eternal fitness; it carries, too, a note of reassurance in its protective mimicry, a hint borrowed from birds and animals. As you look over the long draw lines you know that no life will be wantonly sacrificed to needless display. The uniform has its own glory and its own inspiration, but it took a wanton toll of bravery. It lies by, therefore, for gala days and the happy celebration of peace, when that in good time she will be here. Meanwhile, it is the day of the "khaki-man."

On fair lips the phrase "khaki-man" has become something sacred. It is pronounced with a reverent affection, never "redcoat" never "blackcoat." It implies at the present hour the whole sum of womanly devotion. And in certain circles it carries an added liguency, because of the unwonted constitution of our new armies. The society man as private and non-commissioned officer is just sufficiently bizarre to be lionized in a manner impossible to his superior in other times. Then the soldier and the man as officer as a matter of course, and would have been banal to insist upon his rank, even mention it. "One did not say, 'We did last night, one colonel, two majors and three captains.' Atrocious! But in these paradoxical days it is quite permissible to say, 'Such a jolly dinner last night. Only think, one private, two corporals and one sergeant!'" And the private who has to call his own "sir" on duty is a most exquisite rare bird to have met. Better still if he took one to dinner.

Drab as it is, the inherent and becoming manliness of khaki prevails. Our fair allies across the Channel looked for an expeditionary force whither in traditional scarlet, and for a moment they were disappointed. Only for a moment. The man Thomas Atkins justified him and his garb justified him. Jeannette, were she questioned to-day, would say she prefers him as he is, in quiet campaigning kit. She treasures his bronze badges as fervently as if they had been glistening nickel, or even silver. And here at home it is the same. Watch the returned on short leaves in any public place, fashionable or unfashionable, and see how the woman's eyes brighten and their manner radiates worship as they "ete their warrior. For there he is, the same figure. Yet, essentially, they were still before bright color as of old, for their soldier in khaki wears for them the red badge of courage.

There is a specimen of Jack Tar's humor. A live shell left unexploded on warship during the Heligoland battle. Jack picked it up and pitched it overboard, with "Ere, old 'd, I don't want no bloomin' foreign stuff on this ship!" We laugh, not because he threw the shell overboard, but because of the entirely typical and tarry humor of Jack's indignation.

There is a third excellent story of three men playing nap in the trenches. One was an Irishman, another a Scot, and the third was a descendant of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. During the game the Scot said he would like trying "three," and the "gentleman from Ould Ireland" promptly called "three." The Scot's mother said "was Palestine stroked his nose, re-fected, and went nap." He was about to play his first card when there came a shell which stopped the nap playing, and the "three" was left forever. The Scotman, curious as to the cards held by the poor Jew, took them from him, and looked at them, and exclaimed: "That was a near shave for us, Mike! We nearly lost five bob! Look! He had dealt out, nap!" The story reads a trifle morbid, but it exemplifies again that circumstance never hold Tommy's humor in; it is bound to come out.

The Raw Recruit
Another Tommy, in the raw recruit stage, had occasion to be severely admonished by an officer. The next day, when passing the officer, Tommy omitted the salute, and the officer promptly halted him. "Why didn't you salute me?"

"Well, sir, you an' me ain't friends."

"We'd a row yesterday, if you remember?"

"Here's another. The colonel was away, and a company sergeant-major had badly warned him. Tommy had been despatched everywhere in search, and it so happened that when the colonel entered the barracks he and Tommy met. Tommy saluted, and grinned. "What the dickens are you grinning at?" demanded the colonel. "Well, sir, if you ain't in for a row, it's not 'arf! The sergeant's been 'oldin' for you all day!"

Smokeless Guns
Ordinary powder produces smoke when fired because of the quantity of fine particles formed from the breaking up of the sulphate and from some of the charcoal which is not completely burned. To get rid of smoke (so long a handicap in the use of guns) it was necessary to produce a substance that would explode without leaving any solid residue. This was accomplished by the use of gun-cotton or nitro-cellulose, from which the most satisfactory smokeless powder is made. The substance is a chemical compound, not a mixture like gun-cotton with a mixture of nitric acid and sulphuric acids. It is all converted into gases. Burning is not necessary to cause an explosion, a mere shock or being sufficient. It is too violent, an explosive to use in small arms or in cannon, but gun-cotton can be made for use in guns, and most brands of smokeless powder are made in this way.

Army's 'Acolossal Demands
The vastness of the work of maintaining the British army—apart from feeding it—, is gauged from a few figures. In one month there were issued to the troops 450 miles of telephone wire, 570 telephones, 500,000 pairs of socks, 10,000 pairs of double boots, 38,000 bars of soap, 150,000 pairs of socks, and 100,000 pairs of boots.

In ten days there were also distributed 118,100 pair waistcoats and 315,700 flannel belts.

The way that insignificant items amount up where large numbers of troops are concerned is shown by the fact that every week there is issued on an average five tons of vasoline for the feet and 100 tons of horse-shoes.

Some idea of the complexity of the work can be gathered by reference to the official "Vocabulary of Stores," which contains 50,000 items.

TOMMY ATKINS IS A PRINCE OF HUMORISTS

Our Gallant Army and Navy Take Life Humorously—Men Always, Towards Navy

"Gentlemen, here's Tommy Atkins and Jack Tar! Champion fighters, champion rousers, and champion humorists! God bless 'em!" A good toast, that, and true. For it doesn't matter where Tommy Atkins is, his irrepressible humor, like his indomitable courage, is always there. And he's as incorrigible in the hour of his dying as when his body pulses with vigorous life. Said the chaplain to a Tommy, whose shattered body had been brought to the base hospital: "I think I ought to tell you that your hours on earth are numbered. Tommy, his grey face drawn with pain, looked at him. "When do I go out?" he asked. "Two o'clock," said the chaplain, "in ten minutes you'll be at the ward clock. A nurse passed the bed, and Tommy beckoned her. "You're lost ere, sir, you're lost," he roared. "Well," said Tommy, with a grin. "Stop that bloomin' clock!"

Somewhere in England, on the edge of Christmas—the company had been sent for long route march, and Tommy did not appreciate the operation, especially when the company was a mile from a very inviting George and Dragon. The men "groaned," a trifling accident possibly, for when they were halted they were left standing rigidly at "attention" for ten full minutes. The company did not understand, and they were as near "tuff" as was possible. Then came in Cockney accents from the rear rank: "Well, thank 'Eving there's no bloomin' wasp!" The situation was saved by humor.

When Dying
A chaplain was doing his best for a dying Tommy. The poor fellow, who knew that he was "all in," thanked the minister very earnestly for his ministrations. The chaplain was impressed. Work with the dying is often very disheartening. "Is there anything else I can do for you, sir?" he asked, with fervor. Tommy screwed his face and thought for a moment. "I suppose you could tell me what'll win the Derby?" he asked anxiously. And there the story ends. Old fuss ad been despatched everywhere in search, and it so happened that when the colonel entered the barracks he and Tommy met. Tommy saluted, and grinned. "What the dickens are you grinning at?" demanded the colonel. "Well, sir, if you ain't in for a row, it's not 'arf! The sergeant's been 'oldin' for you all day!"

Especially Mr. Eggen would be missed by the Lutheran people in the Blindman Valley district for his staunch support and work for the Lutheran Church for the last sixteen years. Mr. and Mrs. Eggen then presented Mr. and Mrs. Eggen on behalf of the people assembled there, with a beautiful set of Rogers' table silver, as a token of their regard. ## Get Kiss of France and Cross As Well For Their Bravery

SPLENDID GALLANTRY OF CANADIANS AT THE FRONT IS RECOGNISED BY FRENCH GOVERNMENT

London, March 22.—"The French military authorities, who have long admired the splendid gallantry of the Canadian forces, gave public proof of their appreciation two days ago by decorating a number of officers and men with their legion of honor and the military medal," says a despatch from Philip Gibbs in the Daily Telegraph today.

A great Canadian guard of honor, with two brass bands and the pipers of the Canadian Scouts, was drawn up in the square of an old Flemish town. Opposite them was a column of French infantry. A group of generals and staff officers and non-commissioned officers who were to receive the decorations were in a separate place. It seemed strange that Canadian soldiers should be here to receive the kiss of a French general as he passed along their lines with his staff, while the bands played the 'Marseillaise' and the general commanding the Canadian corps inspected the French troops.

PINS ON CROSS.

"Then the tri-color was brought forward by a guard of honor, and with that symbol of the spirit of France unfurled in the gray old market place, the French general pinned the legion of honor and the military medal on the breast of the men marked out for the honor and salute with them that kiss which France gives to those who defend her honor."

"Canada will be proud of her soldiers who now wear the ribbons of French chivalry. They have won them by zeal and brave work on the field of honor."

"For one of them, Capt. George Taylor Richardson, of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion, the cross of chivalry in the legion of honor came too late except as a memorial of his gallantry, for which he was killed on February 9."

to be named by the government, and one by the leader of the opposition.

CHANCE TO EXPLAIN

Just before the house rose at midnight, Hon. George F. Graham asked Hon. J. D. Hazen, who was leading the government, if any arrangement had been made between the prime minister and the leader of the opposition in regard to the resumption of the debate on the resolution of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for a parliamentary inquiry into the shell committee.

Mr. Hazen said that no arrangement had been made as yet.

Mr. Graham added that as the discussion of the resolution would concern the minister of militia and as it was announced he was leaving for home, Mr. Graham thought it was only fair that the debate should not be closed until the minister of militia had an opportunity on the floor of the house to make a statement in regard to the matter which had been brought up in his absence. He was a member of this house and as one of his colleagues, and in justice to him, he thought the discussion should not be concluded until Gen. Hughes had an opportunity to make a statement.

Mr. Hazen said that he would bring the suggestion made by Mr. Graham to the attention of the prime minister.

Getting Even With Huns for Holding British Consul

German Consul From Saloniki Is Still Held a Prisoner by Allies

London, March 30.—The German consul at Saloniki, who was deported from that port, has been detained by the French government at the request of the British government pending the release of the British consul at Shiraz, Persia, it was brought out in the house of commons to-day.

The British consul with other British residents at Shiraz, is being held at Akram, Persia, by German emissaries it was declared.

Have Ye Mothered a Man?

(From John Bull, March 6, 1915)

I can hear the beat of a million feet
In England's sea girlisle,
And the rhythmic tread makes my blood run red
In spite of our foe's man's guide.

A million men from hill and glen From city forge and farm
Are mustering fast to the bugle's blast
And they shout to arms, to arms.

Proudly they come without tuck of drum,
Steady and stern and strong Lords of the soil, stout sons of toil
To right a nation's wrong.

They come to fight in the cause of right,
To fight, and if need be die
To keep our name from the taint of shame
And blazon it on the sky.

Oh women, who love them, bow your heads Thank God for the gift He gave Your breasts have suckled a lion brood
The bravest of the brave.

No hiring host with bragging boast Of mastery of the world.
True sons of peace, when the war shall cease
And their battle flag is furled.

Terrible now, they have sworn a vow
To avenge their murdered kin
The world shall know where'er they go They fight to death, or win.

They heard the cry that rose on high When gallant Belgium fell
And the German flood in a sea of blood Made woman's life a hell.

With knitted brows they left their looms
They swarmed from our factories then They marched to the fight, with bayonet fixed To avenge or die like men.

The sword of France and the English lance Pushed bright in the summer sun
And side by side in their matchless pride
They will fight till the war is won.

Dr. Ira T. Gilbert: "I freely admit that D. D. D. is the most cases of eczema and permanently cures them."

OUTSIDE VIEW OF CANADA'S MINISTER OF MILITIA"World's Work" Has Splendid Article on Canada During
The War

To see Major-General Sir Sam Hughes as other people see him we must go to the United States, where we find in that well-known magazine
"World's Work" an article on Canada and the War, wherein a splendid description is given of the magni-

Confronted suddenly by the horrid face of war, it gaped as we should gasp at the same terrible awakening.
Its citizen soldiers "sprang to arms" as we so fondly imagine our untamed citizens would do—but they did so with two immense advantages over us; one that we should certainly not have, and the other that we should have only by the unlikely coincidence of extreme good luck.

The first of these advantages was that same protective screen of the most powerful fleet that rides the Seven Seas. Canada, under that screen, had time, if need be, to make mistakes and rectify them—to take as she is taking, two years to gather and equip the material of the nation for defense. We should have no such insurance against unpreparedness and blunders.

The other and unforeseeable good fortune of Canada was that it unexpectedly produced a man—exactly the man it needed for its military necessities. Sam Hughes, as he has always signed himself and as every body, old and young, in Canada still calls him, was not the man Canada had picked to be its Wellington.

Everything knew him as about the best lacrosse player Canada had ever produced. They knew him as a school teacher, lecturing on the English language, literature, and history at the Toronto Collegiate Institute.
They knew him as editor of a country paper, the Lindsay Ont. Warbler.
They knew him as a member of the Canadian Parliament, where his eccentricity of speech and habit and did not just sit in the wings out-in fifteen days—and would have done it in less if a freight train loaded with his water pipe had not run out of the tank for his way to the camp and delayed him.

CANADA'S ARMADA
By that process every regular army officer in Canada, with two exceptions, lost his job in a few weeks, at every aggressive business man Hughes needed to get things done was holding out a quarrel with the commission and getting them done. The camp was ready, the uniforms were ready, rifles and ammunition were on the spot. All day long the men were exercised, route marched, taught how to shoot. Every man was given his turn behind the butts, where he could hear the grating whine of bullets flying overhead and the sickening thud and splash of bullets striking.

And ten weeks from the day the day was declared thirty-three transport ships steamed down the St. Lawrence River, in three lines of eleven ships each, a battleship at the front and another at the rear of each line, a flotilla of destroys guarding each flank, on every ship a thousand Canadian soldiers, completely armed and equipped, and partly trained, and sailed three thousand miles across the ocean to England without the loss of a single life.

And seven months later the Canadians, on the battle front at Ypres, under the fumes of the first German gas attack, and with only their pitiful little machine guns and rifles, and spitting back at the thundering

"Jack Johnsons" of the Teutonic hordes that tried to break through their line in massed formation, stood their trenches, losing ten thousand men in less than ten thousand seconds, and then to their German opponents, armed with aviation, and the other that we should

A LIFETIME
OF SICKNESSWorn Out, Thin and Miserable
Until She Took "Fruit-a-lives"

PALMER, June 20th, 1914.
"Stomach Trouble and Distressing Headaches nearly drove me wild. Some time ago, I got a box of 'Fruit-a-lives,' your famous fruit medicine, and they completely relieved me. To-day I am feeling fine and a physician, meeting me on the street, asked the reason for my improved appearance. I said, 'I am taking Fruit-a-lives.' He said, 'If Fruit-a-lives make you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can.'"

est sights in Canadian newspapers two years ago was the line at the bottom of the editorial columns of "Help Wanted" that read, "No English need apply." Yet when the war came, English-speaking Canada with one voice declared for the defense of the British Empire. Every Canadian explains this phenomenon in his own way; but as nearly as an outsider can gather, the explanation lies down to one common set of influences, namely, that Anglo-Saxon civilization is at stake, that the civilization is worth every dollar and every drop of blood in Canada, and that the British Empire, to paraphrase a famous speech, is the United States, stands for that civilization and those institutions, and that hence Canada is Britain to the marrow of its bones and will fight Britain's battles to the bitter end from whatever quarter it is assailed.
Seven, in they will war the American if it is assailed by the United States.
Hence, whatever doubts may cloud Canadian minds as they look to the future, doubt about the solidarity of the British Empire is not one of them. Canada will demand, after the war, that it shall have a bigger share in the political councils, especially in the shaping of those diplomatic and commercial policies that involve the possibility of future war; but only the solid ground of the British Empire is the basis on which to meet this demand half way and so has done little more than discuss a few of the plans by which this union may be made closer.

ARE FRENCH-CANADIANS
"SLACKERS"?

The one weak spot in Canada's military armor, the one sore spot in Canada's credit, has been the French-Canadian population. Two million of Canada's 7,200,000 inhabitants in 1911 (the last census year) were of French origin. Of the 225,000 men enlisted at the first of this year, less than 10,000 were French-Canadians.
Canada feels this keenly. In the Province of Quebec, where the law for a century has guaranteed the inviolability of the French language and the Catholic Church, in that province the majority in every district school is usually the public school, taught by public teachers, and instruction is given in the French language. In Montreal, the New York City of Canada, 500,000 people are French and 150,000 are of English or other origin. In the city of Quebec, the New Orleans of Canada about 80,000 are French and about 6,000 are of other origin. In the rural districts the French predominance is as large or larger. Under the liber-

Jaws, these people have their customs and language and religion, have had equal justice and an equal vote, and have thrived com-mercially. A French-Canadian, the Hon. Laurier, was for many years Premier of the Dominion. Now, says Canada, they have failed to show their appreciation of the rights they have enjoyed under British protection, and are leaving to the English-speaking people the fighting of the battles that guarantee their enjoyment of this freedom and this protection.

MAY USE HUN SHIPS TO CARRY RELIEF TO BELGIUMConcession from Allies, but Germany to Derive No Benefit From It.

London, March 30.—Announcement was made in the house of commons to-day by Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, that the British government after consultation with its allies had decided to permit the American commission to charter a Belgium to charter German steamships in neutral ports for the transport of supplies to the front. The Dutch company, on strict conditions which would insure that no appreciable benefit would accrue to Germany.

Lord Robert added it was the purpose of the government to continue facilities heretofore afforded the commission so long as it maintained proper relations with the German government.

Many of the war charity stations in Germany take the form of wooden stables. These have been erected in many of the towns of Germany and country. People drive nails into the stables, each nail costing roughly 25 cents. They are usually going to the Red Cross funds. The idea is that the stables should be covered with nails, and there is some German German town of any importance which has not erected in some prominent place one of these wooden stables. Berlin has the most imposing one—a huge edifice of Hunsburg, of course. The Hunsburg itself is no less than 33 feet high from the soles of his mighty boots to the crown of his colossal hat, and the statue rests on a square pedestal over 6 feet high. At Hunsburg a wooden statue of the German St. Michael has been erected. Hamburgers are now spending their marks in nails which they drive into the stables in the cause of charity.

THE BLACK WATCH

The Black Watch, represents the regiment of the 40th and 50th Battalions of the Royal Highlanders which in turn represented independent companies from which Canadians raised between 1776 and 1785 to keep the peace of the Highlands. Each company of its own commander, and most of these companies had the name of the Gaelic, "Frederick Dhu," or Black Watch, as opposed to the "Leidsman Dhu," or Red Soldiers.
The title, "Royal Highlanders," was bestowed in 1776, and at that date, no man having a prior claim to give a tartan to the whole, a new dark tartan was especially designed, which has since been peculiar to the regiment. Like all British regiments, the Black Watch has a long and distinguished record. It has fought in every place and under every commander, and has been in arms at the battles of Culloden, Waterloo, Corunna, Waterloo, Alma, Sebastopol, Lucknow, Aden, Tel-el-Khuffi, Afghanistan, and Paardeburg, South Africa.
Many of the Black Watch's regiments against foes which are now not only friends, but comrades in arms, at the battles of the Marston and the new, and latest of all, Paardeburg.

ARMENIANS EXTINCT?

Latest Turkish Atrocities Show Deliberate Flenish Plan

A letter written by a man in Constantinople to Anonim Williams, a member of the British Parliament, describes the plight of the Armenians.
"The Armenians," our people was never greater. We now know that the Armenians are not only being deported in a body from all towns and villages in Cilicia to the desert, but that the Armenians before they can arrive at the remote place of their exile, which is the desert, they are being killed. We learn, besides, that the roads and the highways are strewn with corpses of the exiles—and those who survive are doomed to certain death, since they will find neither houses, work, nor food in the desert.

"It is a plan to exterminate the whole Armenian people, quite quietly.
It is another kind of massacre, one of a more terrible nature. Do not forget that all men of from 20 to 40 years of age are at the front. Those of from 10 to 20 years for the military transports. As to those who have paid the regulation tax for exemption for household duties, they have either been killed or imprisoned under some pretext or another. Hence there remains only the old and weak and children to exile. These unfortunate people have to pass through districts which are populated dangerous even in times of peace and where there was great risk of being robbed.

"Courageless, operate everywhere without cessation. Twelve Armenians were hanged at Cæsarea on the charge of having obeyed instructions which they had received from a meeting secretly held at Bucharast in the Armenian Republic. For further particulars apply P.O. Box 578, Red

A meeting of the Council of Local Improvement District No. 371 was held at the Alexandra Hotel at Sylvan members of the Council were present.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

Representative of the Canada In-meeting and spoke to the Council in respect to their culverts. An order was given for one culvert 30 in. x 20 ft at the price of $75, less usual discount, to be shipped on May 15 to the siding of Minerva.

Communication was read from the Canadian Pacific Railway re survey that was made last year through the S.W. 1 of sec. 3-37-2 5, and another from C. Fitzgerald, regarding road work. Those letters were referred to the secretary for reply.

The following payments were ordered and cheques issued: Rich. Holbrook and Sons $80; Ed. Gilbert $15.
J. W. Johnston $22.50; C. A. Miller $21; John Nelson $117; Rolston-Marshall Co. $55; J. A. Olson $20; Western Municipal News Co., $24; Secretary-Treasurer $12, and road work sheet No. 3 for $80 to be credited on the assessment roll.

The Secretary placed before the Council letters and literature on road graders, that he had received since the last meeting, and after discussing the matter for some time the Council favored the buying of the "Road King" Adams leading wheel grader, but it was found that the expense would be greater than the division could afford in one year, and in view of this fact the Secretary was instructed to write to the Minister of Municipal Affairs and ask him to grant this Council a privilege to purchase the grader on one or two years terms.

Next meeting will be at Sylvan Lake on Saturday, May 30.
